CANVASS FOR CHANGE

Barack Obama was against the war in 2002 before it began while others were following the conventional Washington thinking and lining up to support Presidents Bush's war. He has stood up ever since against a war that never should have been authorized and should never have been waged.

And Barack has a plan to end the war responsibly:

1

Immediately begin to pull out troops engaged in combat operations at a pace of one or two brigades every month, to be completed by the end of next year.

2

Call for a new constitutional convention in Iraq, convened with the United Nations, which would not adjourn until Iraq's leaders reach a new accord on reconciliation.

3

Use presidential leadership to surge our diplomacy with all of the nations of the region on behalf of a new regional security compact.

4

Take immediate steps to confront the humanitarian disaster in Iraq, and hold accountable any perpetrators of war crimes.
